NATIONAL RECREATION VEHICLE INDUSTRY ASSOCIATION RETURNS TO THE KENTUCKY EXPOSITION CENTER

LOUISVILLE, KY (November 24, 2015) – The 53rd Annual National Recreation Vehicle Industry Association Trade Show returns to Louisville Tuesday, Dec. 1 – Thursday, Dec. 3 at the Kentucky Exposition Center. This industry-only event draws approximately 7,500 attendees and is expected to generate $6.6 million in economic impact.

The three-day show, produced annually by the Recreational Vehicle Industry Association, brings recreational vehicle dealers, distributors, campground operators and exhibitors together in one location to see the latest RV products. Sixty manufacturers and more than 230 suppliers will take up all 1.2 million square feet of space of the Kentucky Exposition Center. In addition to exhibits, the show will feature educational seminars that include hands-on technician training, information about sales and more.

The RV industry has seen six consecutive years of growth and the Louisville show offers the opportunity for the industry to see the latest products, network with colleagues and gain additional education.

The Recreation Vehicle Industry Association is the national trade association for recreation vehicle manufacturers and their component parts suppliers who build more than 98% of all RVs produced in the U.S. For more information, visit <http://www.rvia.org>.
